Covington, La.-based Stirling Properties said Friday that Ulta opened a 9,810-sq.-ft. store at Hammond Square on July 9.

The Hammond Square store, located between T.J.Maxx and Target, is the retailer's third Louisiana location outside of Baton Rouge and Shreveport. "Bringing ULTA to Hammond Square is part of Stirling Properties' commitment to expanding the shopping opportunities here in Tangipahoa (Parish)," said Grady Brame, executive VP and partner for Stirling Properties. "Our goal with this development is to not only offer residents a one-stop shopping experience through a variety of retailers and restaurants, but to serve as a catalyst for continued growth and economic development."
