Stacey Boudreaux receives ABR designation

ERA Stirling Properties' Stacey Boudreaux, sales associate in the Ascension Office, recently received the Accredited Buyer's Representative designation. This designation is awarded by the Real Estate Buyer's Agent Council, an affiliate of the National Association of Realtors.

Realtors who receive the ABR designation must complete specified educational and practical experience criteria within a three-year period.

The criterion includes completing a two-day ABR designation course, the successful completion of an ABR elective course and the completion of five documented transactions as a buyer's representative.
