

Stirling donates $10,700 to Mary Bird Cancer Center

Stirling Properties has donated $10,700 to Mary Bird Perkins Cancer Center, an independent, nonprofit cancer treatment center with locations in Baton Rouge, Hammond and Covington, company officials said.

The gift was presented to Todd D. Stevens, president and chief executive officer, and Katherine Rose, development director for the Northshore/Florida Parishes of Mary Bird Perkins Cancer Center at Stirling Properties' sixth annual golf invitational held at the University Club Plantation Golf Course in Baton Rouge Oct. 12.

Due to the generosity of more than 60 corporate sponsors, Stirling Properties was able to surpass previous donations to the organization with the largest amount to date, officials said.

"At Stirling Properties we strive to give back to the communities in which we live and work. Mary Bird Perkins Cancer Center has made an impact on our region and we are committed to doing our part to support such a fine institution," said Grady Brame, vice president of Asset Management and Golf Invitational Chair.

Mary Bird Perkins Cancer Center's CARE Network provides cancer support services, awareness and education programs, research and early detection programs to cancer patients, their families and the medically underserved in our community.

"We are grateful for the ongoing support of Stirling Properties," stated Stevens. "Their generous gift will enable us to continue to expand free cancer screenings to residents of southeast Louisiana."
