Don Broussard, water operations manager for Lafayette Utilities System, has been chosen by the Southwest Section of the American Water Works Association to receive this year's George Warren Fuller Award. This award is presented to AWWA members with distinguished service to the water supply field.

Broussard

Broussard has served as water operations manager for more than 14 years. He holds Class IV certifications in water production, treatment and distribution, as well as wastewater collection and treatment. He is the first Lafayette resident to receive the Fuller Award since 1985.

Broussard serves as the Southwest Section's representative on the AWWA Board of Directors and has been nominated to be the association's vice president. He also serves as chair of the Water Sector Coordinating Council and as a board member for the Southeastern Regional Small Public Water Systems Technical Assistance Center. He is co-founder of the Louisiana Water/Wastewater Agency Response Network and the Chicot Aquifer Stakeholder Group.

Under Broussard's leadership, LUS has been recognized with the state's Best Tasting Water several times during the past few years. The system produces an average of 22 million gallons of drinking water per day and never has had a single violation of drinking water regulations.
