

Jindal names new ethics team

Posted: November 9, 2007

BATON ROUGE – Gov.-elect Bobby Jindal today named his Ethics Transition Advisory Council under chairman Sean Reilly of Baton Rouge and vice chair Virginia Shehee of Shreveport.

The Ethics Transition Advisory Council is one of seven transition advisory councils, also including economic growth, education, health and social services, hurricane recovery and emergency preparedness, government and fiscal reform, and crime and public safety.

Two special committees will examine Veterans Affairs and Wildlife and Fisheries issues. Transition advisory council members will collect testimony and make policy recommendations to Jindal pertaining to the policies he announced during his campaign.

The first Ethics Transition Advisory Council public hearing is in Baton Rouge Thursday at Kirby Smith Hall on the LSU Campus. The hearing will focus on the ethics reform initiatives presented in Jindal's 31-point ethics reform plan and highlight the connection between strengthening ethics reform and increasing economic development and national investment in Louisiana.
